Ray Mead Road roundabout work

Work to improve Ray Mead Road roundabout in Maidenhead is taking place until Friday 19 February. Temporary traffic lights are in operation from 9am - 3.30pm daily.

The works are part of a £6m road improvement scheme in the Royal Borough aimed at improving six key roundabouts in Maidenhead. To learn more about the scheme please read our press release.

The potential consequences of not complying with the requirements could have caused a member of the public to unknowingly consume allergens from an unlabelled item.

Have your say on our highways and transport survey

We want your feedback on the highways and transport services we deliver across the borough. These include public transport, road safety, and highway maintenance.

National Highways & Transportation (NHT) are working in partnership with the council on the survey.

To share your feedback and help us make improvements, complete the survey before the deadline of Sunday 28 February on our website.

Trading standards officers help prosecute shopkeeper

Our trading standards officers have helped prosecute a shopkeeper for failing to comply with food labelling requirements.

Stay safe this Chinese New Year

If you are planning to celebrate Chinese New Year today, please think twice before using sky lanterns in your celebrations.

They are a fire risk and can be dangerous to animals. You can read more about this on our website.

Royal Berkshire Fire and Rescue Service also recommends not using sky lanterns because of the fire hazard and risk they pose to property, crops, livestock, and the environment. You can read more on their website.

Windsor featured in TV show 'The Architecture the Railways Built'

This week, Windsor was featured in the latest episode of UKTV show 'The Architecture the Railways Built'. The episode looked at how the rivalry of two rail services competing for the patronage of Queen Victoria forever shaped Windsor.

Amanda Bryett (pictured), from the Windsor Tourist Guides, featured in the episode. She spoke about the architecture of Windsor's main railway station and went into detail about the attempted assassination of Queen Victoria in Windsor station in 1882.

The would-be assassin, Roderick Maclean, was found not guilty, but insane.

Amanda said that "Queen Victoria was very cross at the verdict in Maclean's trial as she felt this could lead to anyone attempting to kill her. The following year the law was changed so that any future verdicts would find criminals guilty and insane instead."

The Windsor & Royal Borough Museum is currently hosting an outdoor exhibition at the Windsor Guildhall about this attempted assassination.

You can learn more about the attempt on Queen Victoria's life in this short documentary.
